Dear Insurance Executives,

Re: Statutory reporting to the General Insurance Statistical Agency (GISA) related to Ontario Auto Reform effective July 1, 2026

The General Insurance Statistical Agency (GISA) serves as the statistical agent for nine Canadian jurisdictions. Under the legislation of each jurisdiction, insurers are required to submit data in accordance with the applicable Statistical Plans in a timely, complete, and accurate manner.

GISA has been reviewing Ontario data submissions related to transactions with effective dates on or after July 1, 2026, to assess the accuracy of reporting for new and revised data elements introduced as part of the Ontario Auto Reform. Through this review, GISA has identified anomalies and inconsistencies that appear to be inconsistent with established reporting requirements.

In accordance with established reporting protocols, GISA has advised the Financial Services Regulatory Authority of Ontario (FSRA) of these preliminary observations. Insurers with identified reporting deficiencies may be contacted directly and requested to provide a remediation plan, including timelines for addressing and correcting the identified issues.

While GISA will work directly with reporting companies to address identified deficiencies, all insurers are reminded of their obligation to establish and maintain appropriate procedures and controls to support the timely submission of complete and accurate data. This includes ensuring appropriate oversight of any third parties involved in the preparation or submission of statistical data on their behalf.

GISA remains committed to working collaboratively with insurers to support compliance with statutory data reporting requirements. Should you have any questions, please contact GISA at gisa@fsrao.ca.

Sincerely,

Benny Cheung,
Senior Manager, GISA Operations
